“ Celina was my oldest sister. I am the youngest of now 5 siblings. She was always someone I admired. She was cool and I wanted to be like her. We had ups and downs as sisters do. She was always rooting me on. When our mother died, she stepped up to be the motherly figure I needed. She held me up when no one else did. She was my rock and the ear that listened to my pain. Now she's gone and I don't know what to do. I feel so lost without you sissy. I feel so cheated. She was cheated. The little things that meant the most, hurt the worst. Idk know what to do or how to live without you. It's been nothing but torture. I'm numb and in denial. I force myself to feel that I don't care. If I don't care, it never happened. I'm sorry I didn't get to see you one last time while you were awake. I feel so guilty.

“ My loving, beautiful, funny and caring Mother...I will always remember when you would take me riding in your car with you and you would listen to your music while you danced in the car. I used to be so embarrassed when I was a teenager, but now as I look back at those car rides, I wouldn't change them for the world and would give anything to have one more moment of that with you. I will love you forever and always. You will always be forever in my heart (and on my sleeve) ♥♥♥
