“Maryann Katzor was the kind of teacher that truly shapes young lives. Miss Katzor opened up a world of art and culture to me. After high school, I studied theater and worked as a professional actor for many years before going into other areas. Maryann also opened a sense of joie de vivre and an excitement in the possibilities of life beyond Muskego. Her classroom was filled with character and a sense of sophistication. She was the very epitome of a great teacher. She opened new worlds to her students. She certainly opened mine. I will forever be grateful to her and hold her memory in my heart.

“Maryann Katzor was a unique force who made monumental impacts on the lives of many, many young people - myself included. "Ms. Katzor" opened my eyes to possibilities I had never imagined and also provided numerous opportunities through theatre and forensics to pursue those possibilities.

Her phrases such as "Don't act like you are in town to spend the egg money," or "Make time on your own time" instilled values of respect for others as well as self.

I was able to apply the classroom and life lessons learned from Ms. Katzor throughout my career in television news and also while serving as Assistant Chancellor for Facilities and University Relations at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire.

Thank you, Ms. Katzor and sincere condolences to her family and friends.

“ I have wonderful memories of Miss Katzo throughout my Muskego High School years she was an inspiration to me I was so nervous when I first auditioned for Not Far From The Gioconda Tree but Miss Katzor, incourged me to go for it and I have thought of what she said to me many times in my life. Thank you for all that you did.

May you fly with angels.

“ 1973 Muskego High.

As my theatre / film arts teacher, her inspiration was something I never thought I would use later on in my life. Continuing as an actor, columnist/writer, tv and radio personality..

to think it all started as I climbed into a gorilla suit to promote the high school play, "Inherit the Wind."

“ Maryann Katzor had a profound impact on my life. She encouraged me and instilled confidence in me. Because of her, I went to college. I ended up teaching for 35 years. I loved my career and hoped that I could somehow impact students in the way she had done for me. Whenever students thanked me for something they had learned from me, they were really thanking her influence; thus, she lives on in the lives of students she never knew. I am forever grateful for Ms. Katzor.
