“ I remember when I first met Willie. He was supposed to teach a class for the religious education program but that's when the heart transplant was taking place. Years later I got to know him and got to listen to his jokes, which were non-stop, and went to watch him bowl against the younger crowd. He was a funny guy and sometimes I just like to hear him talk about "back in the day". He will be missed for sure. His jokes, not so much, but his smile and his laugh, for sure!
